THE CONVENTION

George W. P. Hunt, of Globe, Elected President; A. M. Cole, Secretary

LARGE CROWD AT OPENING

Delegates Get Down to Real Work Without Delay. Convention News

With galleries well filled with spectators, organization plans of the majority party perfected and the Arizona sun shining brightly outside, the convention which will frame the organic law of the new state, was called to order in the capitol at noon Monday by Judge A. C. Baker, of Phoenix. Everyone of the fifty-two delegates were present.

In the absence of specific provision in the enabling act Baker had been selected by the democrats to wield the gavel on the formal opening. Baker prefaced the call to order with a few well chosen words and called upon Rev. J. E. Crutchfield of Tempe to pronounce the invocation. The delegates arose as the snow-haired minister came forward and said in part:

"Thank God for the circumstances surrounding us today. We pray for guidance that our hearts, hands and tongues may glorify thy name. We thank Thee for this grand body of seate men. We trust they are patriots and believe they will frame such a constitution as will bless the teeming thousands that will flow into the state in coming years. We pray for divine guidance for the man who will have the gavel in hands during this convention."

The second step in the day's proceedings was the nomination by Morris Goldwater of Judge Baker for temporary president and his unanimous selection by the convention. On motion of Hunt, A. M. Cole was chosen temporary secretary. Miss M. Alice Berry was named as temporary stenographer on the suggestion of Baker.

The secretary read the list of elected delegates and on motion of Webb of Graham a committee on credentials consisting of one from each county was named by the president as a committee on credentials, as follows:

Jones of Yavapai; Cutler, Apache; Ingraham, Yuma; Curtis, Santa Cruz; Lovin, Mohave; Morgan, Navajo; Tovrea, Cochise; Coker, Pinal; Hutchinson, Coconino; Orme, Maricopa; Keeney, Gila; Webb, Graham; Cooper, Pima.

A committee of five to invite Judge Kent to administer the oath of office was appointed on motion of Orme as follows: Goldwater, Kingan, Doe, Franklin, Ellinwood.

A motion to select a committee to name a list of standing committees by Winsor was objected to by Webb on the grounds that permanent organization had not been perfect and was withdrawn. On motion of Parson a recess of ten minutes was taken. After another recess of fifteen minutes the report of committee on credentials was received and adopted.

Judge Kent was escorted to the platform and administered the oath to the delegates of the convention and said:

"I compliment you on this opportunity to do a great and lasting good to the state, and I bespeak for the delegates wisdom and prudence."

The oath administered was one that had been offered by Cassidy and adopted by the convention.

George W. P. Hunt was then placed in nomination for presidency of the convention by Cunningham of Cochise. Judge Wells was nominated by Judge Doe as the minority candidate. Hunt was elected by a strict party vote except that Hunt and Wells exchanged complimentary votes.

Hunt was escorted to the chair by Wells and Cunningham and was greeted with applause. In taking the presidency Hunt said:

"I wish to return my sincere thanks for elevating me to an office I did not aspire to. It matters little what we say here, but what we may do here will count with the people of Arizona and of the nation."

A. M. Cole was elected as secretary of the convention by acclamation.

Rev. Crutchfield was elected permanent chaplain of the convention. After his pronouncement the convention was declared fully organized and the wheels began to revolve.

An interesting tilt was had over a resolution offered by Cunniff of Yavapai, declaring that convention adopts the constitution of the United States. Judge Wells offered an amendment adding the words "and the amendments thereto." Judge Baker objected to this as unnecessary, and Webb stated that the same question had arisen in other conventions and the amendment voted down.

The vote was almost on party lines, the amendment being defeated by a count of 38 to 15 against. The original resolution was then carried by a unanimous vote on roll call.

A committee of one member from each county was created to name the number and personnel of the standing committees. Another on rules and procedure was named.

Those who will construct the organic act under which Arizona will have its being in the future are:

DEMOCRATS

Apache—Fred T. Coalter.
Cochise—E. E. Ellinwood, John Bolan, R. B. Simms, C. M. Roberts, F. R. Bradner, Thomas Feeny, A. F. Parsons, E. A. Tovrea, D. L. Cunningham, C. F. Connelly.

Pima—S. L. Kingman, W. F. Cooper, George Pusch, Carl Jacome, J. C. White.

Santa Cruz—Bracey Curtis.
Yavapai—E. W. Wells.

To obviate any future charges of undue influence or control, such as have been preferred in connection with the National House of Representatives, President Hunt, in convening the convention, Tuesday morning, suggested that the president be eliminated as a member of the rules committee, thereby placing the conduct of the convention in the hands of the delegates as much as possible.

A report was made by the committee on credentials providing for three standing committees to conduct the convention, and twenty-one committees for drafting the different sections of the constitution.

The rules of the Twenty-fifth legislature were adopted as the rules that will be observed by the convention.

The anti-saloon league indicated that it would make a strong lobby proposition for a provision, although there will be little likelihood of its success.

A. A. Cohn, editor of the Daily Globe, will be secretary to the president of the convention.

Little business was accomplished during the forenoon session because of the democratic caucus on attachments, which finally decided to place the number at thirty, including those already named. J. K. Truman, of Pinal county, was selected to fill the position of sergeant-at-arms.

ARIZONA MAN ROBBED

Pickpockets Steal Railroad Tickets and Money from Visitors

W. H. Foote, of Safford, Ariz., was a victim of pickpockets at the Majestic Theatre shortly after 10 o'clock Saturday night, October 8th, when he was robbed of a wallet containing two return tickets from Salt Lake to Safford and $10 in money.

Accompanied by his wife, Mr. Foote came to Salt Lake to attend the conference of the Mormon Church. In making his complaint to the police last night, Foote said the usher preceded him to a seat. When half way down the aisle the ushers is said to have stopped short.
